HOPE FOR PEACE DWINDLES

INTERESTS MUST BE GUARDED

ABYSSINIA REFUSES ALL VOLUNTEERS' OFFERS

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Aug. 10, 8 a.m.)

London, Aug. 9.

It is reliably learned that the British Government has almost abandoned hope for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and is consequently preparing to safeguard British interests in North-East Africa in the event of war.

The Cabinet has reportedly decided to strengthen the military patrols on the British Somaliland and Kenya frontiers. The Government will send 8,000 Sikh troops to Lake Tana, which is the heart of the Egyptian irrigation project.

It is disclosed, also that if the tri-power conference, between Britain, France and Italy, fails to bring about a peaceful settlement or a foundation for settlement, Britain may permit the present arms embargo against Abyssinia to be revoked. Moreover, Britain may revoke permission for Italian aeroplanes to cross Egypt, which would seriously hamper Italy's aerial transport link with her African colonies.—United Press.

Berlin, Aug. 9.

Several thousand applications to join the Ethiopian Army have been received at the Ethiopian Consulate here, and they are still arriving in great numbers daily.

In addition to German offers, others have come from Britain, Poland, Sweden and Czecho-Slovakia, and other countries in lesser numbers.

The residents of the Gold Coast have offered to furnish 10,000 men.

All applications are being refused, although they are gratefully acknowledged.—Reuter Special.

Map shows Abyssinia and the bordering territories. Britain is vitally interested in the protection of her Colonial frontiers.

OFFER DECLINED

Addis Ababa, Aug. 9.—The Ethiopian Legation in London has declined the applications from Britons for enlistment in the Abyssinian Army as the question of nationality and expense is involved.—Reuter.

ALOISI CHOSEN

Rome, Aug. 9.

It is officially announced that Baron Aloisi will head the Italian delegation to the tri-party conferences in Paris where Britain, France and Italy will discuss the Italo-Abyssinian crisis on the basis of the 1906 treaty.

Well-informed Italian circles to-night were not optimistic of the conference serving any useful purpose.—Reuter.

NO EXCUSE

St. Paul, Aug. 9.

There is no excuse whatever for either Italy or Abyssinia to go to war to settle their differences, declared Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, author of the anti-war pact, when interviewed by Reuter to-day.

Every nation has the right to call upon the other parties to the pact to maintain peace and the integrity of the treaty, he added.—Reuter.

ITALIAN TROOPS DESERT

CROSSING SWISS FRONTIER

DUE TO SERVE IN AFRICA

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, August 10, 8 a.m.)

Bellinzona, Aug. 9.

Notwithstanding Rome's denial of such disgrace, it is believed that a considerable number of Italian Army deserters have filtered into Ticino, an Italian-speaking frontier canton, during the past few days.

Many of these are of units under orders to proceed to Abyssinia.

The Italian frontier guards are on the qui vive and consequently deserters are forced to cross the international line at wild and desolate points in the Alps. Once they get into Ticino they have no great difficulty in concealing themselves owing to the language similarities and the sympathy of most of the inhabitants.

Meanwhile, the Federal Council at Berne is taking a grave view of the propaganda going on in Ticino for a union with Italy. The Council has decided to prosecut for high treason men and women of Bellinzona who have already been or who may be arrested in connection with this movement.

The connection of civil servants of Ticino in the pro-Italian propaganda is being examined.—Reuter Special.

FALLS TO DEATH

New York, Aug. 9.

Mrs. Saylin Henkin, sister of the famous song writer, Irving Berlin, was killed when she fell from the roof of a four-storey building here to-day. Her skull, both arms and both legs were fractured and death was instantaneous.—Reuter.

Further Arrests In Toulon

TWO POLICE HURT IN CLASHES

NATIONAL RALLY

Paris, Aug. 9.

The Ministry of the Interior announced to-day that 68 arrests were made in Toulon last night among the striking arsenal workers, and their sympathisers, who fired on police and soldiers, barricaded the streets and behaved in a generally riotous and dangerous fashion, as a protest against the Government's decreed wage cuts.

One Italian was found carrying explosives. Two police inspectors were injured in the course of the evening during the execution of their duty.

Yesterday passed fairly quietly in Brest, Toulon and Le Havre, though shops in Toulon remained closed and hundreds of smashed windows testified to the violence of yesterday's rioting.

In addition to the Champlain, the liners Colombie and Lafayette sailed from Le Havre, the Colombie on a Baltic cruise and the Lafayette for Canada with 320 ex-servicemen of the French Army aboard. They are going to be entertained in the cities of "French" Canada.

NATION RALLIES

For the first time in the history of the Third Republic, the prefects of the whole of France assembled at Paris to hear M. Pierre Laval, the Prime Minister, address them on the mechanism of the new decree laws designed to protect the franc and secure for the nation complete economic recovery.

The only absentees were the prefects of Var and Finistere Departments who have been detained by the disturbed conditions in Toulon and Brest respectively.—Reuter.

NO HEIR TO LORD WOOLAVINGTON

London, Aug. 9.

The death of Lord Woolavington to-day recalls the sensational victory of his Epsom Lad in the Eclipse Stakes in 1901, when the South American jockey, Gomez, had the misfortune to break the girths some distance from the finish. Gomez gathered up the saddle and weight cloths under one arm, however, and rode home bare-backed.

Formerly Sir James Buchanan, Baron Woolavington, was the first holder of the title. He was born in August, 1849, and became Chairman of James Buchanan and Co., Ltd., the well-known distillers, and also Chairman of W. P. Lowrie and Co., Ltd., of Glasgow. He was a noted racehorse owner, and won the Derby in 1922 and again in 1926. There is no heir to the title.

SIR ALFRED PALMER

The death is also reported of the octogenarian shipbuilder, Sir Alfred Molyneux Palmer, Bart.

The late Sir Alfred was the third holder of the title and succeeded his brother in 1910. The heir to the title is Mr. Anthony Frederick Palmer, who was born on August 29, 1914.—Reuter.

Britisher Fights Way From Flood

WILD ADVENTURE IN PHILIPPINES

COMING TO HONGKONG

Manila, Aug. 10.

Mr. William Teeling, a Conservative Parliamentary candidate, noted author and a frequent contributor to the London Times on world social affairs, reached Manila late last night after an eventful trip from Baguio.

He left the mountain resort against the advice of friends last Saturday, driving an automobile, and accompanied by Senor Ramon Roces, a magazine publisher, son of a well-known newspaper owner.

The two men were cut off from Baguio and their route to Manila was impeded soon after their start by the floods which followed the typhoon. So they decided, since roads were impassable, to walk to Manila.

They had several narrow escapes and were once caught in a landslide. Teeling was buried up to the knees but managed to struggle clear. At one point they accompanied a dead man across a river on a home-made raft.

TEN FEET OF WATER

At Dagupan they were forced to climb a tree in order to enter a hotel which was surrounded by ten feet of water. They amused themselves in the hotel by catching rice snakes on the floor.

As a result of their enforced stay in the flood area, Teeling missed the Hongkong steamer yesterday and will probably not sail for the British Colony until next week.—Reuter.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Mr. Teeling, who contested the Silvertown Division of West Ham in 1929, was Chairman of the Essex Federation of the Junior Imperial League from 1929 to 1930, and Executive Chairman of the Catholic Emigration Society of Great Britain and Northern Ireland from 1929 to 1931. In 1930, he spent a year in Canada, making exhaustive studies of immigration and economic conditions; studied unemployment in the United States in 1931-32; tramped through England, also France, Italy, Germany and Austria, often living in doss-houses, to study actual unemployment conditions at first hand in 1932-33, and led a pilgrimage of British unemployed to Rome and was received in audience by the Pope in 1933.

EPIDEMIC DANGER IN AMERICA

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Aug. 9.

Owing to the epidemic of infantile paralysis in neighbouring states, President Roosevelt has now definitely cancelled the National Boy Scout Jamboree, which had been arranged for August 21 to 30 and at which 35,000 Scouts, including a large British contingent, and groups from other European countries, South America, the Philippines, and elsewhere, were to attend.

Over 1,400 tents had already been erected along the Potomac River when the order came through to strike camp.

President Roosevelt almost lost his life fourteen years ago when he was stricken with infantile paralysis. The affliction left him crippled.—Reuter Special.

STRIKE DANGER GROWING

U.S. RELIEF WORKS WALK-OUT

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WON'T SURRENDER

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Aug. 10, 8 a.m.)

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.

One thousand skilled union workers on work relief projects here have gone on strike, and their action affects directly another 14,000 unskilled men.

Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, announced to-day that similar walk-outs would probably spread to Chicago, Cleveland, San Francisco and Seattle. New York is already in the grip of a strike.

The strike of the relief work employees is regarded as the commencement of a nation-wide stoppage, for, Mr. Green says, Labour believes it can compel the Government to pay unionists union wages instead of mere subsistence allowances.

Mr. Harry L. Hopkins, Work Relief Administrator, issued a statement at Washington to-day, saying:

"There is no such thing as a strike on relief work. For if the men do not want to work they can go off relief."

JOHNSON PERTURBED

General Hugh Johnson, former chief of the N.R.A. and now Work Relief Administrator in New York State, gave warning that the strikes might develop riots and bloodshed. These warnings had been disregarded, he said.

The relief work wage scale pays a maximum of $93 for a 120-hour month (or 15 eight-hour working days) which works out at 78 cents an hour, while such skilled workers as union plumbers scale $1.50 an hour, which is $12 a day or $180 for a 120-hour month.

Mr. George Meany, President of the New York Federation of Labour, has despatched flying squads to urge non-union workers to join the unionists in the striking areas everywhere.—United Press.

STANDING FIRM

Washington, Aug. 9.

President Roosevelt is determined to stand firm against the threatened strike of relief workers.

He told a press conference yesterday that those who were in need of relief could take the jobs offered or go without.

If they refused the Government's terms, they would not be entitled to draw relief.—Reuter.

FEW MEN AFFECTED

New York, Aug. 9.

Although the anti-work relief wage strike has broken out here, only 727 out of a total of 100,000 men have ceased work. Union leaders, nevertheless, declare that the strike will be in full swing by August 12.

General Hugh Johnson has declared that all who do not return to work Monday may be struck off the pay rolls.—Reuter.

Washington, Aug. 9.

Th left-wing Senators are capitalising the rising fever for early adjournment in the Senate.

They are seeking an agreement that the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage bill be taken up for consideration at the next session of Congress, providing that the inflationist faction does not attempt to prolong the present session by attaching the Bill to the Wealth Tax Bill.

It is considered worthy of note that the proponents of the Bonus Bill have already won such a concession.—United Press.

MAKE-UP HINTS

By

MAX FACTOR

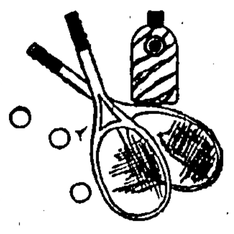
PICK-ME-UPS

On one of those evenings when you return home with a dull eye and a jaundiced look——try a "facial——tub-bath" treatment.

Here's how——

Sprinkle a dash of Eau de Cologne into the bath tub and start the water running. As the tub fills undress, cleanse your face with Melting Cleansing Cream, remove and pat on a generous amount of Skin and Tissue Cream—and leave it on the face while you hop into the tub to stretch and relax for ten beautiful minutes.

Now then, after the ten minutes rest is over, rinse, hop out, dry yourself briskly——and here's the grandest part of all. Finish the treatment by applying Eau de Cologne all over the body. It gives it the grandest electric, tingling tone! Remove the cream, dab Astringent under those tired eyes to perk them up, apply your make-up, and you're ready for the evening.



For outdoors sports, and at beach or mountains the Hollywood Screen Stars consider MAX FACTOR'S Eau de Cologne indispensible.

MAX FACTOR'S

EAU-DE-COLOGNE

Gives a most delightful tingling tone to the body after a bath! In warm weather it tends to neutralize perspiration, acting as a mild deodorant. By its tonic effect it refreshes the body when fatigued by heat. And it is remarkably economical, needs only a little to cover a large area. New Quick-Whitening Action Makes Dull Teeth Clear and Sparkling

Modern science has discovered that millions of germs are collecting on the teeth, forming ugly dingy stains that no ordinary toothpaste can remove. That is why we say...start using Kolynos. Your teeth will look brighter after the very first brushing. Soon they will look clearer, cleaner and whiter than you believed possible.

The quick-beautifying action of Kolynos is due to two things. First, Kolynos contains the finest cleansing and polishing agents known to science. Second, it has the antiseptic power to kill millions of germs that cause ugly teeth and decay.

Now try this new way that so quickly gives dull, discolored teeth brilliance and whiteness.

"CRANKS" UNDER FIRE

MILK AS POISON FOR RATS

EARL TELLS A STORY

Humorous remarks about health "experts" and cranks were made by the Earl of Malmesbury in his presidential address to the Royal Sanitary Institute Health Congress, which was held at Bournemouth recently.

"I must confess," he said, "that in reading the literature connected with the activities of the Royal Sanitary Institute I am somewhat startled and indeed almost overwhelmed with the vast number and variety of important subjects with which you deal, as well as with the profundity to which you carry our research and inquiries. Indeed, at this moment I am almost overcome with the same feelings as that ancient Queen of Sheba, who, after hearing the wisdom of King Solomon, confessed that there was no more spirit in her."

He hoped that he would not offend anyone's delicate susceptibilities, but he confessed that sometimes he was inclined to think that we were indulging in an orgy of super-sentimental philanthropy and in a prodigal expenditure of public monies which was not always, he thought, proportionately rewarded by its results.

Within very recent times we were daily, if not almost hourly, reminded of the value of pure milk.

RATS DID NOT THRIVE

"I am not prepared to admit that our present milk supply is anything like so bad as the 'experts' and cranks would make out," he said. "I fear I shall have to refer to the cranks later on. At the moment, I will merely content myself with repeating a story (how far true it may be I am not prepared to guarantee) that by way of experiment a pair of rats were fed on pasteurised milk, when it was discovered that as a result the happy couple became too weak even to propagate their own species and it was suggested that possibly pasteurised milk might be ulimately found to be a most satisfactory method of rat-destruction."

Lord Malmesbury related another anecdote regarding a child who was removed from a children's home where he was being fed on pasteurised mlk to another institution where ordinary milk was given. Rapid progress and much improvement was immediately reported as a result of the change of diet.

The story was told to him by a friend of his who was a farmer—"and he swore it was true."

"We must, however, at the same time, hasten to admit the wonderful benefits, lasting and developing, fruitful and rewarding, which sanitary science, with its kindred researches, has conferred upon the human race," he said.

"A SPOON-FED NATION"

The complex nature of modern life had, however, called into existence a huge army of "experts," who, served by bands of devoted voluntary workers, had imposed upon the nation a somewhat exaggerated sense of the dangers to which human flesh was prone and the importance of the remedies. We had therefore to separate the real from the imaginary and establish between them a correct estimate of values.

"The question at once arises," Lord Malmesbury continued, "whether we are not becoming a spoon-fed nation—whether we have not gone too far. One cannot help sometimes feeling that the adaptability of the individual is being weakened, if not destroyed, by the endless army of officials who more and more intervene in our daily life. No nation can long survive a constant shepherding of its destinies.

"We have in these latter years fallen into the hands too much of professional legislators," he went on, "and I have no hesitation in saying that it would be very much better if Parliament took a long holiday instead of passing one measure after another, all more or less bearing the stamp of crankishness."

Lord Malmesbury also observed in conclusion that he thought commonsense did not sufficiently form part of our educational curriculum. He did not mean to say that there was no commonsense to be found among educationists, but they were unfortunately of little account—their voices were drowned by the shouts of the cranks.

TENT CITY RISING IN U.S.

SCOUT JAMBOREE IN FORTNIGHT

YOUTH CONGRESS

New York, Aug. 6.

A complete city within a city will spring up almost overnight when upward of 30,000 Boy Scouts converge upon Washington for the National Jamboree celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of scouting in America.

The Jamboree will open on August 21 and continue through August 30.

It will be a world's fair of scouting drawing contingents from every continent. Delegations are arriving from Great Britain, Canada, Cuba, France, Roumania, Hungary, China, Mexico and the Soviet Union. Other countries sending Jamboree contingents are Australia, British Guiana, South Africa, Haiti, Spain, Poland, Argentina, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries.

The scout city in Washington has been planned in complete detail by National Headquarters here. It will have its own water supply, communication and transportation systems, and even a daily newspaper. Thousands of tents will be pitched on Columbia Island within sight of the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial.

Resources of the army and navy have been placed at the disposal of scout leaders. District of Columbia Scouts will serve as guides on numerous hikes to historic spots of Virginia. A Special contingent of 1,260 boys from scout ranks will do police work for the camp. They will be divided into three groups, traffic guards, camp patrols and night guards.

250 Tons Of Food

Food for the encampment for one day will total 250 tons. The estimated water supply will be 1,000,000 gallons daily. Special equipment has been bought to meet every need of this scout city. Included are small dry ice boxes for each troop, patrol tables and shower bath houses.

A review will feature the first day of the jamboree. The line of review will be along Constitution Avenue, with President Roosevelt scheduled to pass through in a White House car. Later the scouts will march to the Ellipse for a formal welcome to the nation's capital.

Probably the most colourful event of the encampment will be the national grand pageant. It will be divided into four parts:

"The Past of America," an Indian episode.

"The Building of America," historical episode.

"The Youth of America," scoutcraft episode.

"The Future of America," citizenship induction ceremony.

The forthcoming jamboree will be the largest peace-time assemblage of youth in this country, according to headquarters here. The encampment will cover more than 400 acres and will include the most modern equipment of its kind.

In addition to the camp life, regional displays and friendship meetings, the scouts will go on extensive sight-seeing expeditions. First will be a thorough bus tour of the national capital, then a trip to historic Mount Vernon with many other hikes arranged by scout officials. Washington has been divided into four zones for hikes and a tour of each of these is on the programme.

AFTER ACCIDENT SHE PUT ON WEIGHT

Kruschen Took It Off Again!

A woman sends the following account of the consequences of a motor accident in which she was involved:—

"A year ago I had a very bad motor accident, which left me more or less a cripple. Having to lie in bed so long, and being unable to move, I began to put on flesh. When I was able to walk a little again, I found I was 10 st. 4 lbs., and being just under 5 feet you may guess how I was placed. So I thought I would try Kruschen Salts, and I must say they have done me a lot of good in every way—but chiefly in keeping my weight down. In three months I lost 6 lbs. Then I left off taking the Kruschen, and I soon went up to 10 st. 2 lbs. again. So at once I got Kruschen, and am again steadily reducing. My weight last month was 9 st. 8 lbs."—(Mrs.) W. H. M.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, would be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

EXTRALITY TO GO

EMANCIPATION OF MANCHUKUO

Tokyo, Aug. 9.

A meeting of the Japanese Cabinet to-day decided that in view of the fact that extrality in Manchukuo is steadily losing its importance, Japan favours a gradual abolition.

The South Manchuria Railway will eventually permit the Manchukuo Government to assume the administration of the railway, although the Railway Company itself will retain the zone leases under the existing agreements.

Dates for the abolition of extrality were not mentioned, but the Foreign Office issued a statement to-day, pointing out that Manchukuo courts were improving rapidly and Japan believed that abolition of extrality was necessary for Manchukuo's progress as an independent State. Japan's surrender of extrality would be made as rapidly as possible, without disturbing the Japanese communities.

The Dairen and Kwantung leased territory will not be affected.—United Press.

HABEAS CORPUS WRITS

IMPORTANT DECISION GIVEN

An extradition prisoner who seeks to challenge the validity of his detention by means of habeas corpus proceedings must make his application to the Full Court consisting of at least two Judges, instead of to one Judge only.

The above decision was arrived at by Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell (Puisne Judge), who at the Supreme Court yesterday dismissed the application made to him by Tong Wan-kiu, alias Tong Chan-mung for the quashing of an extradition order made by Mr. W. Schofield, the Senior Magistrate, at the instigation of the Canton authorities. The applicant, who was represented by Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mr. F. X. d'Almada, Snr., was alleged to have embezzled money from a pawn-shop of which he was the managing partner.

When the application was brought before Mr. Justice Lindsell, the assistant Attorney-General (Mr. J. A. Fraser) contended that his Lordship had no jurisdiction to hear the application in the form in which it was made. The application was made to his Lordship in person, and he argued that it should have been made to the Full Court which consisted of no fewer than two judges.

Mr. Jenkin, for the applicant, contended that any man in Hongkong, whether he be a British subject or not, had the absolute right to test the validity of his imprisonment before every judge who was in office at the time when the application was made. Every man, no matter what his nationality, was entitled to the decision from each of the local judges upon the legality or otherwise of his imprisonment and it was immaterial whether he be imprisoned as an offender against the local laws or whether he was a fugitive whose extradition was sought. It was the right of any subject in the Colony to go before successive judges protesting against his imprisonment.

His Lordship's Decision

Giving his decision yesterday, his Lordship said:

This is an application by Tong Wan-kui, alias Tong Chan-mung, a prisoner who has been committed to gaol by a magistrate under the provisions of the Chinese Extradition Ordinance, 1889, to await surrender to the Canton Government, for an Order Nisi that a writ of Habeas Corpus do be issued and directed to the Superintendent of Prisons to bring the body of the said Tong Wan-kui, alias Tong Chan-mung before me forthwith, in order that the validity of his detention may be determined.

A similar application, based, as I understand, on the same grounds, was made on July 15 last to my brother the Chief Justice and was by him dismissed.

On the present application the Assistant Attorney-General, appearing for the respondent, has taken the preliminary objection that no Judge of this Court, sitting alone, is competent to entertain such an application. He bases this contention on the material words of the proviso which was added to section 6 of the Supreme Court Ordinance, 1873, by section 2 of the Supreme Court Amendment Ordinance, 1934, and which incorporated in an amended form the earlier proviso enacted by section 2 of the Supreme Court Amendment Ordinance, 1929:

"Provided that the practice with regard to writs of certiorari, habeas corpus and mandamus shall be the same as in England on the 31st day of December, 1930":

and by showing on the authority of Smith & Mellors "The Practice of the Crown Office," p. 319 f., and of Halsbury's Laws of England (Hallsham edition) Vol. 9 paras. 1226 and 1231 (1st edition Vol. 10 paras. 117 & 122) that except during vacation every application for a writ of habeas corpus on a warrant of extradition must be made to a Divisional Court.

Two Judges Necessary

I am entirely satisfied that in England on December 31, 1930, it was necessary for an extradition prisoner, who sought during sittings to challenge the validity of his detention by means of habeas corpus proceedings, to apply in the first instance to a Divisional Court comprised of at least two judges. Except in vacation, he had not the right which was and is available to other classes of prisoners to make application to a Judge at Chambers. (Crown Office rule 219).

The question I have therefore to decide is whether or no the proviso to section 6 of the Supreme Court Ordinance has made it necessary for an extradition prisoner in Hongkong who desires to institute habeas corpus proceedings to apply to what it is argued for the respondent is the only equivalent in the Colony of a Divisional Court in England, namely, the Full Court sitting in its Original Jurisdiction.

For the applicant, Mr. Jenkin has drawn my attention to section 22 of the Supreme Court Ordinance 1873:

"...all actions and other proceedings whatsoever, except appeals, may in the first instance be heard before any of the Judges sitting alone, unless the Chief Justice directs that the same shall be heard before the Full Court" and to certain provisions of the Chinese Extradition Ordinance, 1889, from which it appears that the legislature intended that habeas corpus applications by prisoners whose extradition is sought by the Chinese authorities could be entertained and adjudicated upon by a single judge. He argues further that if this principle is established any such prisoner has an absolute right at common law to go from one judge to another to get the validity of his detention tested and re-tested. (See the Nigerian case 1928 A. C. 459).

No Distinction

In my view, however, there is substance in the objection taken for the respondent, whatever were the rights in regard to habeas corpus of an extradition prisoner in Hongkong prior to 1929, and no distinction can, I think, be drawn between a Chinese national whose extradition is sought under the provisions of the Chinese Extradition Ordinance, 1889 and any other national whose position is regulated by the Extradition Acts.

I hold that those rights were clarified and determined by the proviso added to section 6 of the Supreme Court Ordinance by the amending ordinance of that year. It seems clear that in England it was thought necessary, in view of the international obligations involved, to limit the rights of an extradition prisoner in this respect by requiring him (except during vacations) to make a habeas corpus application not to a single judge but to a Court of two or more judges. One effect of the proviso to section 6 of the Supreme Court Ordinance 1873 is to extend this requirement to Hongkong.

I desire to add that I am entirely at a loss to understand why, and think it extremely regrettable that this objection was not taken for the respondent when the original application was made to my brother the Chief Justice. I am, however, glad to be assured that the Crown is prepared to facilitate any application, consequent upon the failure of these proceedings, that may be made by or on behalf of this prisoner to the Full Court.

The application is dismissed.

CASE ADJOURNED

YOUNG CHINESE CHARGED WITH THEFT

The case in which Wong Cheung, a 27-year-old accountant, is charged with larceny of $474.26, was adjourned by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon owing to the fact that one of the witnesses was ill and unable to appear in Court.

It is alleged that defendant, who is represented by Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios, stole the money from Woo Fun, money-changer, between Feburary 4 and July 8.

Detective-Sergeant Dowman appeared for the prosecution.

"It seems to me that I can have no option but to adjourn the case," said Mr. Wynne-Jones on hearing that complainant's wife was seriously ill.

The case was, therefore, formally remanded for six days. Bail was reduced from $750 to $550, to be provided in cash of two approved sureties.

In applying for this reduction of bail, Mr. Remedios said: "It is owing to unforeseen and unfortunate circumstances that defendant has been detained longer than he might have been."

BANDITS IN SOUTH

JOINT DEFENCE PLAN BY CHAN CHAI-TONG

Canton, Aug. 9.

In view of renewed bandit activities in the frontier districts bordering Kwangtung, Kiangsi and Fukien, General Chan Chai-tong has proposed to form a joint force for defence on the eastern frontier.

Recently small groups of bandits from a hundred to several hundreds strong, raided villages in Yungting, Shanghang (Fukien), Kwanmunling (Kiangsi), Lamshan and Yichang in Hunan. They plundered provisions from the villages.

The proposal suggested by General Chan Chai-tong is to form a strong bandit suppress force under the command of a military high officer selected with the approval of the three provinces. It is suggested that General Headquarters for the joint forces will be established in a suitable point, which can be easily reached from the border districts of all the three provinces.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

"PRINCE'S" PLATE

By Messrs. Mappin & Webb.

THERE IS DEEP SIGNIFICENCE

in the way time proves the real worth of beautiful things, time adds to their value—indeed time is often the test of their quality and an index of their measure of perfection. In the case of good plate, quality is the only criterion of value and the intimate test of that quality is in time and use. That's why PRINCE'S PLATE is so unquestionably worthy of the unrivalled reputation it has achieved.

BUILDING UP THE NATION

The particulars given yesterday of the scheme evolved by tht Physical Education Committee of the British Medical Association aiming at a big improvement in the physical condition of the younger generation indicate that a throrough-going campaign is likely to be started for the purpose of giving the British people more vitality, better stature, more robust health, more pleasure in work and play, and more zest in living. The suggestions now put forward follow a recent lament by the Minister of Health regarding the people's physique, and in its work the Committee has closely consulted the Services and the Health and Education Departments. One of the proposals is that there should be more time and facilities provided for physical training in all types of school, that local education authorities should appoint organisers for gymnastics, games, and sports, and that more opportunities of physical development should be put in the way of young people who have already left school. At the present time, of course, physical culture figures in the curricula of most of the schools, but the programmes are often dull and perfunctory gestures, largely regarded as outside serious routine. The care of the mental fibre of the pupils, to the relative neglect of the physical fibre shows that a proper balance has not been observed. As one commentator asks, of what use is a bright, well-furnished mind if it is continually being clogged, clouded and burdened by an abject frame? For it is beyond question that due regard for physical training produces results of the highest value in character formation. Germany and other Continental nations are, through attention to physical culture, bringing a virile generation into being, but in England what has been described as "physical illiteracy" is widely apparent. Town existence is in some respects a handicap to physical fitness, as also is the tendency to rely on mechanical means of transport. Latterly however, hiking has come into prominence, but there is need for rigorous, well-planned physical education. This is foreshadowed in the report of the B.M.A. Committee, and, happily, the desire among youth for physical excellence has never been keener. If a well co-ordinated scheme is evolved and applied systematically to the rising generation, we may hope to see a better type of manhood in the days ahead.

NOTES OF THE DAY

"SQUATTERS" PLIGHT

The "squatters" in Wongneichong have been ejected. Many of their shanties have been torn down. The Land Bailiff and the police have acted, the law has fulfilled its function, the remedy has been taken. But the "squatters" are still with us. They will probably build themselves pitiful little shelters elsewhere, as they have done before. They provide a perennial problem. It is quite reasonable to demand that they should be removed and the action yesterday was justified. The trouble is that it does not solve the problem. "Squatters" are a menace, and "squatters" and their rights have been a source of trouble to other places than Hongkong. There was a notable case in recent years in Vancouver, Canada, when "squatters" fought against a company which attempted to eject them from their homes along a section of the waterfront where they stood in the way of industrial development. Not quite the same situation exists here. No-one would object to "squatters" in Wongneichong in reasonable numbers, we suppose, or if they did not constitute a menace and a nuisance. Their quarters are indescribably filthy. They are living close to a reservoir. They have invaded the outskirts of a choice residential district. These things alone would be sufficient to demand their expulsion. Besides, they are breaking the law. So that even if their treatment has been harsh, in the light of the repeated warnings given them the "squatters" have hardly a justifiable complaint. The only comment anyone is likely to offer is that they were treated a little ruthlessly, perhaps.

HARD-WORKED MAN

There may be a million men in the British Isles—mostly young men—who think they could make as good a shape as Cabinet Minister as any members, past or present. There are many millions who believe that the post is an easy one with a comfortable salary. In fact, most men are apt to think they could make their mark in any other fellow's job. They may think again when they hear of what a day's work for a Cabinet Minister means. Lord Zetland, Secretary of State for India, tells of a typical working day. It begins at nine in the morning with an hour of attendance to general correspondence. From ten to eleven he grapples with some—to overtake all is impossible—of the telegrams pouring in from India. Till one o'clock he, as a Cabinet Minister, is wrestling with the perplexing problems of the whole world. The next two hours, with a short interval for lunch, he is again immersed in Indian affairs, and then Parliament claims him till half-past eleven, with another brief interval for dinner. This attendance to Parliamentary debate is not a formality with a Minister responsible for the passage of a great and complicated measure. He must listen attentively and have the subject at his finger-ends so that he may on the spur of the moment repel any attack made by opponents. Even midnight may not see the end of his harassing duties. For, as Lord Zetland says, he may lie awake in a sultry night thinking of the brilliant retorts he might have made to his critics, but did not.

BETTER GO BACK TO WHISKERS

By P. G. WOODHOUSE

It is pretty generally agreed, I think—and what I think to-day Manchester thinks to-morrow—that something has got to be done to restore vigour and vitality to literary criticism.

There was a time, not so long ago, when reviewers were reviewers. They lived on raw meat and spoke their minds, and an author who published a book did so at his own risk. If he got by without severe contusions of his self-respect, he knew that he must be pretty good. And if the reception of his first novel left him feeling as if he had been drawn through a wringer or forcibly unclothed in public, that was an excellent thing for his art. It put him on his toes. If he had the stuff, he persevered. If he had not, he gave it up.

To-day, the question Have you read any good books lately? is one which it is impossible to answer.

There are no good books nowadays—only superb books, astounding books, genuine masterpieces, and books which we are not ashamed to say brought tears to our eyes.

Some people (who ought to be ashamed of themselves) say that the reason for this tidal wave of sweetness and amiability is the fact that reviewers to-day are all novelists themselves. Old Bill, they claim, who does the literary page of the Scrutineer, is not going to jump on Old Joe's "Sundered Souls" when he knows that his own "Storm Over Brixton" is coming out next week and that Joe runs the book column of the Spokesman. This, of course, is not so.

Nobody who really knows novelists and their flaming integrity would believe it for a moment. It is with genuine surprise that William, having added "Sundered Souls" to the list of the world's masterpieces, finds that Joseph, a week later, has done the same by "Storm Over Brixton." An odd coincidence, he feels.

No, the root of the whole trouble is that critics to-day, with the exception of a few of the younger set who have a sort of unpleasant downy growth alongside the ears, are all clean shaven.

Whether the old critics were bitter because they had beards or grew beards because they were bitter is beside the point. The fact remains that all the great literary rows you read about were between bearded men, whiskered men, critics who looked like burst horsehair sofas and novelists who had forgotten to shave for years. The Edinburgh reviewers were beavers to a man.

The connection between whiskers and caustic criticism is not hard to see.

There is probably nothing which so soothes a man and puts him in a frame of mind to see only good in everything as a nice clean shave. He feels his smooth pink cheeks, and the milk of human kindness begins to gurgle within him.

What a day! he says, as he looks out of window. What a kipper! he says, as he starts his breakfast. And, if he is a literary critic, What a book! he feels, as he picks up the latest ghastly effort of some author who ought to be selling coals instead of writing novels.

But let a man omit to shave, even for a single day, and mark the result. He feels hot and scrubby. Within twelve hours his outlook has become jaundiced and captious.

If his interests lie in the direction of politics, he goes out and throws a bomb at someone. If he is an employer of labour, he starts a lock-out. If he is a critic, he sits down to write his criticism with the determination that by the time he has finished reading it the author will know he has been in a fight.

You have only to look about you to appreciate the truth of this. All whiskered things are testy and short-tempered—pumas, wild cats, Bernard Shaw, and—in the mating season—shrimps. Would Ben Jonson have knifed a man on account of some literary disagreement if he had not been bearded to the eyebrows? Can you imagine a nation of spruce, clean-shaven Bolsheviks, smelling of bay rum?

There is only one thing to be done. We must go back to whiskers. And there must be no half measures.

It is not enough for a critic to have a beard like Frank Swinnerton's, which, though technically a beard, is not bushy enough to sour the natural kindliness of his disposition. We must have the old Assyrian stuff, the sort of beards Hebrew minor prophets wore—great cascading spade-shaped things such as the great Victorians grew (whether under glass or not has never been ascertained).

I realise that I shall suffer myself from the change. There will be no more of those eulogies for my work like "Another Wodehouse" or "8 by 10½, 315 pp.," which I have been pasting in my scrapbook for so many years. But I am prepared to sacrifice myself for the sake of literature, and I know that a sudden ebullition of whiskers among critics would raise the whole standard of writing.

A young author would think twice before starting his introspective novel of adolescence if he knew that when published it would be handed over for review to somebody who looked like W. G. Grace at the age of eighteen.

Nervous women would stop writing altogether, and what a break that would be for the reading public. The only novelists who would carry on would be a small, select group of tough eggs who had the stuff.

And it is useless for the critics to protest their inability to fall in with the idea. It is perfectly easy to grow whiskers. There is a whiskered all-in wrestler in America named Hairy Dean. He did it. Are our star reviewers going to tell me that they are inferior in will-power and determination to an all-in wrestler?

Tush!

"Yes, that's wonderful. Can we go now?"

VIGNETTES OF LIFE

BATHNG FATALITY

YOUNG CHINESE STUDENT DROWNED AT KOWLOON

The fatality which occurred at the Lichikok bathing beach on July 1, when a 17-year-old student of th Ying Wah College, Mak Hon-kuor was drowned, formed the subject of an inquiry conducted by Mr Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon. The jury after a short retirement returned a verdict of "accidental death" and recommended that steps be taken by the proper authorities to prevent such occurrences.

The Coroner was assisted by a jury comprising Messrs. G. S. Dunkley (Foreman), Lo Man-po and A. H. Delcourt.

Dr. G. H. Henry, medical officer in charge of the Kowloon Mortuary, deposed to the post mortem examination of the deceased. Witness stated that the cause of death was asphyxiation due to drowning. Death had taken place two days previously. There was no external evidence of violence.

Lance-Sergeant C. Willcox stated that about 5.20 p.m. on July 15 he was ordered to proceed to Laichikok where he found the body of deceased on the rocks on the west side of the bay. Witness went ashore and found the body dressed in a green costume. There were minor abrasions on the body caused by contact with rocks.

Incident Described

Leung Cho-wing, insurance broker, testified that on July 14 about 1 p.m. he went with a party comprising Mok Yim-lam, Chan Chun-yue, deceased and Mok's father, mother and sister, to Laichikok. Shortly after their arrival on the beach, Mok, Chan, deceased and witness went out for a row in a sampan which had been hired from the public bathing shed. They had also hired a rubber life-belt.

The tide was out and the party rowed out about a distance of 300 yards, when Chan jumped into the water and swam about. About ten minutes after that he headed for shore, and the rest followed in the boat about 24 feet away.

Deceased then threw the life-belt into the water and jumped in after it. Witness did not know whether deceased could swim, so he watched him, and saw him try to reach the life-belt which was about six or seven feet away. The lad failed to reach the belt. He appeared to know little about swimming and he began to beat the water with his hands.

As deceased's head bobbed up in the water witness shouted out to Chan to come to his assistance. At that time Chan was about 24 feet away, and as witness thought he could not reach the boy in time, he (witness) dived in and grabbed deceased by the legs and pushed him to the surface; witness was underneath.

Sank Several Times

Both of them sank four or five times, and witness was becoming exhausted. As they came to the surface the last time, deceased got loose and witness lost sight of him, so he shouted "Save life."

Witness was very tired but managed to hang on to an oar which was floating on the water until a man came along and pulled him toward the hillside. On reaching the shore witness saw Mok Yim-lam on the rocks. There were other people present and when they were informed of what had happened they started a search.

Questioned, witness stated that he was not a good swimmer. He felt that the current at the time was strong. Witness believed that if Mok Yim-lam, who was left, in the boat, could row, deceased would have been saved. The water was deep, witness could not touch the bottom.

Chan Chun-yue stated that he heard Leung call to him. When witness reached deceased, he grabbed witness round the neck from behind and twined his legs round his body. When witness got free of deceased, he found he had disappeared. The life-belt was carried away by the current.

Lance-Sergeant W. Morris stated that when he went to the beach on the day in question there was a fairly high sea running and it was raining heavily. There was a strong current from Laichikok to Stonecutter's Island. Witness had been to this spot before and had found that it was quite safe for an ordinary swimmer when the tide was coming in, but when the tide was on the turn, the currents were very strong and likely to carry a person away from the shore even if he was a normal swimmer.

Further evidence was given by Mok Yim-lam and Chan Sau-king, mother of the deceased.

Jury's Recommendation

In returning their verdict the Foreman of the jury said: "We agree that the deceased met his death accidentally by drowning in conditions which were aggravated by strong currents, and recommend that the facts of the case be put before the proper authorities to take any steps they can to prevent such an occurrence in the future. We do not think any blame attaches to other members of the party."

OPIUM RAID SEQUEL

UNCORROBORATED EVIDENCE OF INFORMER

The danger of convicting on the uncorroborated evidence of a paid informer was stressed by Mr. M. K. Lo before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, when he defended Chan Fook, alias Chan Chi-ha, who with three other men, Tang Yuen, Wong Shing and Hui Tak-sang, was jointly charged with the possession of 156 taels of raw opium in room 316, Luk Kwok Hotel, Gloucester Road, on August 1.

After evidence had been heard, the magistrate discharged Chan Fook, Tang Yuen and Hui Tak-sang. The third defendant, Wong Shing, who pleaded guilty to the charge, was fined $2,400 with the alternative of eight months' hard labour.

Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmitt, in evidence, testified that about 5 p.m. on August 1 on information received he went to the Luk Kwok Hotel. Just as he got to the door of room 316, first defendant came out and on seeing witness began to bolt down the passage. Witness and Chinese Revenue Officer 66 took charge of him. The third defendant also began to leave the room but was prevented. Witness then entered the room and found the four defendants and another man. On a mah-jongg table were found two parcels partially wrapped in Chinese newspaper. One contained a brick of dessicated raw opium and the other twelve bricks of a similar nature.

Mr. Lo remarked that first defendant's defence was that he went to room 615 on the fifth floor to look for a friend, Hui Tak-sang, and was told by the floor "boy" to go to room 316 on the second floor.

Informer's Evidence

Lo Kong-to, Secretary to the Assistant Superintendent of Imports and Exports (Mr. H. A. Taylor) gave evidence that on August 1 at 11 a.m. he was sent by Mr. Grimmitt to act as an opium buyer and went with the second, and fourth defendants to the Luk Kwok Hotel. There first defendant brought in a parcel of opium, and later third defendant went out and returned with another parcel of opium. The purchase price was fixed at $950 and witness wrote out a cheque, which he handed to first defendant. The latter, accompanied by third defendant then went out of the room and shortly afterwards returned stating they were satisfied with the validity of the cheque. With the arrival of the revenue officers, first defendant attempted to escape.

Mr. Lo: Would it be to your interest to get all the defendants convicted? I mean that is what you would like isn't it?

Witness: Yes.

Mr. Lo: As Secretary to Mr. Taylor?—Yes.

Replying to Mr. Lo, witness said the cheque was a bearer cheque but it was dishonoured as it was taken from Mr. Taylor's book and witness signed it. The cheque was not cashed. He did not know where the cheque was now and thought probably one of the defendants took it as it could not be found.

Cheque Not Cashed

Questioned further, witness said that the cheque was subsequently placed in a drawer in the chest-of-drawers and he saw fourth defendant take it out. He then stated that one of the defendants must have taken it away.

Mr. Lo: Was it removed by the fourth defendant or what really happened? Is it suggested that one of the revenue officers pinched it? Where is the cheque?

R. O. Grimmitt: We are not entitled to give our information unless your Worship orders it.

The magistrate: What ultimately happened to the cheque?

R. O. Grimmitt: Whether it has disappeared or not, it has never been cashed and never will be cashed, your Worship.

Mr. Lo remarked that the whole object of his cross-examination of the witness was to try and shake his credit.

Counsel added that he felt his Worship should give a ruling in a case of this kind as to the nature of what weight his Worship should give the uncorroborated evidence of a paid informer. Also, there must be a distinction between a private place and a public place where the opium is found. It would be dangerous to call on a man to defend himself on the uncorroborated evidence of a paid informer.

The magistrate: The informer's evidence has to be accepted for what it is worth until it is contradicted.

Chan Fook then gave evidence to the effect that what the witness Lo Kong-to had said was untrue.

The remaining defendants declined to give evidence.

After the other defendants had been discharged, R. O. Grimmitt informed the Court that the third defendant, Wong Shing, was a carrier for a known owner of opium.

UMETSU'S ADIEUX

ENTERTAINED BY CHINESE AUTHORITIES

Peiping, August 9.

Lieutenant-General Umetsu, the Japanese Tientsin Garrison Commander, recently appointed to the post of Commander of the Japanese Second Corps, arrived here from Tientsin at 11.50 this morning to pay farewell calls on the Chinese authorities here. He was greeted at the station by Mayor Yuan Liang, officials of the Peiping Political Readjustment Council and members of the Japanese Embassy. Japanese gendarmes were also present at the station when the train pulled in, while the Paoantui provided a guard of honour on the platform.

Lieut-General Umetsu will be entertained this evening by the Japanese Embassy. To-morrow, he will give a dinner to the Chinese authorities. On Sunday morning the Japanese Commander will visit the Ming tombs, returning to Peiping in the evening to attend a second dinner given by the Chinese authorities. Lieut.-Gen. Umetsu is leaving for Tientsin after the dinner party on Sunday night.—Central News Agency.

Japan's Interest

Peiping, Aug. 9.

"The Japanese authorities are not taking much interest in the assassination of Colonel Liu Tso-chow itself, but the fact that a Japanese private was injured during the shooting aroused the serious attention of the Japanese military authorities," declared General Umetsu, when interviewed this afternoon at the Japanese Embassy.

General Umetsu stated that the matter is still under careful investigation but before the facts are known the Japanese authorities are unwilling to say anything. He denied that the Japanese authorities had lodged a protest and he also denied that a meeting was held yesterday at the Tientsin Japanese Headquarters at which the Luanchow incident was discussed.

Concluding General Umetsu expressed the hope that the local press would assist in the promotion of Sino-Japanese co-operation in North China.

General Umetsu is leaving for Tientsin on August 13 and he will depart for Japan on August 21.—Central News Agency.

Results Wanted

Peiping, August 9.

Investigations into the Liu Tso-chow case are continuing but no clue has been found leading to the culprits' arrest. The local authorities received an order from the Government telling them to redouble their efforts. Central News Agency.

Homes of Character in Sunny South Devon

With a house in South Devon you need not flee from England in winter. At Churston, near Paignton and Torbay, are houses distinctive in design with sunroofs and spacious windows to capture every moment's sunshine. The coast is peaceful and beautiful, bathing and golf are excellent and the houses are carefully planned to solve the servant problem. And, what is so important these days, they are completely protected against mass development.

SCOTLAND WINS BOWLS TITLE

INTERNATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

WALES SECOND ON SHOT AVERAGE

(BY E. J. LINNEY)

Weston-Super-Mare, July 13.

There was another record attendance at the Victoria Club to-day to see the final matches in the International series. The position was interesting, each country having one win and one loss, and with Scotland leading on shot average.

Ireland gave Scotland a run up to the fifteenth end, the Irishmen playing magnificently. Their accuracy in every department was notable and their leads gave the skips a great advantage in building the ends. At

FINAL TABLE

	W.	L.	For	Agst.	Pts.
Scotland	2	1	301	248	4
Wales	2	1	303	282	4
England	1	2	301	318	2
Ireland	1	2	254	310	2

five ends Ireland led by four shots, Scotland tried their best to pass on, but the Irish were alive to the wiles of their opponents. At ten ends, Ireland still led by three shots, and at fifteen ends, they were again in front by four shots.

It was a keen battle of wits and skill, and the Scots in the last six ends bowled all they knew to get the lead. A six by Sprot was a great help, and with Bryce, Morrison, and Andrew Dunlop pulling up their scores beyond their opponents, the Scots were ten up with two ends to go, and they won by 93 to 80.

New York Clubs Stage A Recovery

BEAT OPPONENTS AT BASEBALL

CARDINALS AND TIGERS ALSO

New York, Aug. 9.

All the leading baseball teams in both the National and American Leagues won their fixtures to-day, the two New York clubs winning from their opponents from Philadelphia by three runs to two in each case.

The Giants have not been any too happy in their series against the Phillies and to-day's game produced another exciting tussle. Two home runs were scored during the match, one by a player on each side.

The Cardinals and the Cubs were also engaged in a close match which went to the St Louis team.

The Yankees, in the American League against the Athletics, won on a home run by Rolfe, whose circuit hit enabled the side to register three runs against their opponents' two.

The Tigers maintain their lead by a victory over the White Sox, whom they nosed out with the assistance of a home run by Greenberg.

Results of to-day's matches follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	R.	H.	E.
New York	3	9	0
Philadelphia	2	6	1

(Jackson scored a home run for the Giants and Johnson for the Phillies).

Cincinnati	0	4	2

Trial For American Swimmers

A PRELIMINARY TO-MORROW

America's great young aquatic team, in Japan for competitions which will determine world supremacy in speed swimming, will face a tuning up test at Osaka to-morrow in a meet preliminary to the decisive America-Japan contest in Tokyo the following week-end, August 17, 18 and 19, says the Associated Press.

Competition for the visiting stars at Osaka will be furnished by a second-string Japanese team, saving the real Nipponese champions for the Tokyo meet and avoiding taking the edge off the thrills promised for the decisive competitions.

The Tokyo contest will bring together the fastest collection of paddlers ever assembled in one pool, not barring any of the Olympic Games. Such American stars as Ralph Flanagan, Jack Medica, John Macionis and Peter Fick will match speed and stamina against an array of Japanese champions fully as good as the team which captured the Olympic swimming title in decisive fashion at Los Angeles in 1932 and toppled the Americans from the throne for the first time in the modern history of aquatic sports.

JAPAN'S STARS

In the Japanese ranks will be such luminaries as Shozo Makino, Hiroshi Negami, Massanoi Yusa and Reizo Kioke, all world or Olympic record holders.

The Tokyo meet is expected to indicate whether Japan will retain her world title at the Berlin Olympics next year or whether the championship will be carried back to the United States by the brilliant array of young swimmers developed since the disastrous setback of 1932.

The Japanese first string team—probably consisting of only 14 men, to match the numerical strength of the invaders—was chosen on the basis of national try-outs held in Tokyo recently. At the same time a second team was selected from the scores of speedy young Japanese mermen who rank only a little back of the champions, to furnish competition for the Americans in the Osaka preliminary to-morrow. This will be held in the new Chikko Pool, a fine plant with a 50-meter course and seating accommodations for about 10,000 persons.

There will be seven races, 100-metres, 200-metres, 400-metres and 800-metres free-style, 100-metres breaststroke, 100-metres backstroke and 200-metres relay, with exhibitions added.

NEXT WEEK'S MEET

The big meet, the main objective of the American stars in crossing the Pacific, will be staged in the Meiji Shrine Pool in Tokyo the nights of August 17, 18 and 19. This pool is one of the finest swimming plants in the world, with a 50-metre course wide enough for nine ample lanes. Its normal seating capacity is nearly 15,000, and such is the interest in the competition that total attendance for the three-nights is expected to reach 50,000, probably a record for a swimming competition.

Since their champions achieved world supremacy in the Los Angeles Olympics in 1932 swimming has rivalled baseball as the Japanese national sport and sent thousands of schoolboys into scientific training in scores of modern swimming plants throughout the empire. The Japanese, like any other people, are fond of the games in which they excel.

AMERICANS TRAIN

Since their arrival in Tokyo at the end of the month the American mermen have been working out daily either in the Meiji Shrine pool or another of the numerous pools in and around Tokyo. The team's mentor, Robert H. Kiphuth, famous Yale coach, is hopeful that the nearly three weeks of preparation will enable his charges to shake off the effects of their long sea voyage and adapt themselves to the hot, humid and enervating Tokyo summer.

In previous years Kiphuth found that his athletes were handicapped by the Japanese summer, especially by the fact that they had to swim in water several degrees warmer than they were accustomed to in American aquatic meets.

Each night of the big meet the programme will offer four Japanese-American races, interspersed with diving events and races for women.

BUTCHER DONATES MEAT PRIZES

At Werribee, Australia, a big dog-racing centre, a local butcher has ensured that the greyhounds themselves shall participate in the fruits of victory as well as the owners.

At a recent meeting, according to Austral News, he began by giving a prize of 50 lb. of dog's meat to each of the winners.

The finishes, coincidentally, were among the closest ever seen in coursing.

HEAVY SCORING IN COUNTY CRICKET GAMES

MANY TEAMS UNABLE TO REACH DECISION

YORKSHIRE'S OPENING BATSMAN IN MERRY MOOD

SCORES 212 RUNS IN A TOTAL OF 393 AT LEICESTER

HERBERT SUTCLIFFE

London, Aug. 9.

Herbert Sutcliffe, Yorkshire's opening batsman, scored his second double century of the current season during the match just concluded at Leicestershire when Yorkshire won by ten wickets. The England batsman contributed 212 runs out of a total of 393.

This is not the first time that Sutcliffe has scored double centuries twice in the same season, nor is his contribution of 212 anything like his best effort, but it is his highest score of the year and is the seventh occasion on which he has passed the three-figured mark this season and the 130th during his career.

Playing against Worcestershire earlier in the season he carried his bat for 200 runs while he also reached the century mark against Glamorgan (twice), Kent, Hampshire and Notts.

Sutcliffe's century enabled Yorkshire to beat Leicestershire by ten wickets even though the total compiled by the leaders was only 393, made in reply to a score of 274. When Leicestershire lost their last wicket in the second innings for an additional 130, runs Yorkshire required but twelve to win. They made fifteen without loss.

L. B. Fishlock, the Surrey left-hander, who is a young punishing batsman against loose bowling, distinguished himself against Middlesex at the Oval where he scored a century in the second innings following a contribution of 72 in the first.

His personal triumph, however, was not sufficient to enable his side to escape defeat on the first innings, although Surrey made 393 runs.

Hendren, the veteran, was again in scoring mood and rattled up a score of 195 before dismissal while he received valuable support from J. H. Human, who scored 144, the Middlesex innings realising 536.

Surrey had lost six wickets for 347 runs when stumps were drawn. Fishlock made 105 and E. R. T. Holmes 91.

MORE HEAVY SCORING

Notts joined the many teams which topped the 400 mark by scoring 433 in their first innings in reply to a score of 333 by Kent at Canterbury where the visitors won on first innings. After Notts had had their innings Kent made 226 for seven in the second attempt when stumps were drawn.

Glamorgan snatched a creditable victory from Sussex in their match at Hastings, winning by three wickets.

The hosts went to the wickets first but were dismissed for 289 runs, in reply to which Glamorgan made 384. Of these Smart made 151 without losing his wicket. In their second innings Sussex made 259, Glamorgan scoring 166 for seven.

Lancashire, in scoring 422 runs against Somerset at Weston-Super-Mare, took five points for a lead on first innings.

Of the Lancashire total Iddon made 112 and Tyldesley 85. Somerset made 216 in reply and 307 in the follow-on. N. S. Mitchell-Innes, the Oxford and England player saved the team with a contribution of 139. When play closed Lancashire had made 70 for six.

Derbyshire beat Northants by 100 runs at Northampton despite a very bad collapse in the first innings, when the whole side was out for 86, Clark, the fast bowler taking 5 wickets for 33.

Northants replied with 186, Mitchell taking 7 wickets for 73 runs, and thus secured a big advantage.

In their second innings Derbyshire made a great recovery, running up the fine score of 362, Townsend making an excellent 102.

Northants did not, like their opponents, rise to the occasion and were all out for a mediocre 161, Copson taking 5 for 44.

The uncertainties of cricket were demonstrated by Hampshire's 78 runs victory at Chelmsford over Essex, the recent conquerors of Yorkshire.

Hampshire made 183 to which Essex replied with 169. In their second knock Hampshire, thanks to a fine 130 by Creese, put up a score of 244, thus securing a very strong position. Their innings would have been even more fruitful but for the excellent bowling of Nicholls who took 5 wickets for 64.

In their second venture Essex made 169, out of which O'Connor made 81. The veteran Kennedy, who is now engaged in coaching, made a welcome return to the Hampshire side, and secured 6 wickets for 84.

SOUTH AFRICANS WIN

South Africa had no difficulty in again defeating R. E. S. Wyatt's men, this time winning on the Birmingham ground against Warwickshire, by the huge margin of an innings and 174.

Batting first the South Africans ran up the gigantic score of 498, Rowan making 102 and Nourse 160, not out. Warwickshire went down before Crisp, who took 5 for 31, but the side put up the fair total of 221, thanks to 83 by Hill.

Following on the Midlanders did not do at all well, making only 103, Crisp getting half the side out for 36.—Reuter.

INDIANS DROP THEIR PILOT

WALTER JOHNSON RESIGNS

BASEBALL CLUB'S FAILINGS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.

Because the Cleveland Indians have been losing with distressing regularity and the fans and sports writers have been raising a howl, they put the skids under old Walter Johnson to-night.

The great pitcher of another day who has been pilot of the Tribesmen for the last three years stepped aside for Steve O'Neill, coach of the Indians. O'Neill will take charge without delay as manager.

Johnson will investigate the progress made by players on minor league teams in which the Indians are interested. Johnson said he suggested the resignation to the owners and they accepted.

Almost simultaneously Bruce Campbell, the Indians' rightfielder, became seriously ill with spinal meningitis at Detroit, where Cleveland has been taking a drubbing in the current series with the Tigers. Campbell was stricken after yesterday's double header, which the league leaders captured. Physicians said his chances for recovery were fair.

Picked by a majority of the sports writers to cop the 1935 American league pennant, the Indians have failed to click thus far this season and now are in fifth place, not even in the first division. They lost to the Tigers to-day at Detroit, after losing both games in yesterday's double bill.

Under such circumstances the anvil chorus is certain to be raised by the fans, and Johnson already was being criticized by the sports writers for releasing Glenn Myatt, catcher, and Willie Kamm, earlier in the season. Myatt is now with the New York Giants.

Johnson came to the Indians from the Washington Senators, whom he piloted for several years with fair success. O'Neill is a Cleveland veteran, having been the Indians' backstop for years before being made coach, his playing days over.

Campbell's loss was a blow at just this juncture. Johnson acquired him from the St. Louis Browns, who in turn got him in 1932 from the Chicago White Sox. A Chicago boy, he is 26 years old, bats left handed but throws with his right.—Associated Press.

CONGESTION AT END OF SEASON

In Lawn Bowls Leagues In Hongkong

(By "Sagax")

The long awaited match, the return fixture between the Craigengower C.C. and the Club de Recreio, is to be played this afternoon and as these two teams are at the top of the Senior Division of the local Lawn Bowls League, much will depend on the result of the engagement, which is to take place at Happy Valley.

Up to date the Club de Recreio head the table but they have played two matches more than the Craigengower C.C., who are only two points behind. The Happy Valley side lost to the Recreio, who, in turn, were beaten by the Police R.C. and the Kowloon B. G. C. A win to-day for the holders of the title will practically give them the championship.

The recent wet weather has held up the fixtures and, as it is, the league will extend well into September with the possibility of it dragging on until after the Interport which will greatly hamper things at the end of the season.

The Interport matches are to be fairly late in the season and if the league is extended until after the Northern visit there is likely to be interference with the football and cricket season which is due to commence at the end of September.

The majority of the clubs will be greatly inconvenienced if the season drags out any further on account of the weather as their players will be wanting to turn to cricket or football before the bowls leagues are concluded.

As I have intimated before the Bowls Association intend to request the co-operation of clubs to play off their postponed league matches either on week days or on Sundays or holidays so that there will be no congestion at the end of the season.

Before the annual meeting of the Hongkong Football Association was held I advocated curtailment of the number of entries for each division of the league and the same suggestion might well be entertained by the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association.

The Executive Committee next season might consider the advisability of reducing the number of teams in both divisions and forming a third division to absorb the remaining teams entering in the league.

There are at present 19 teams competing so that if the number of entries were divided into three groups there would only be six clubs in each division, as the Civil Service C.C. are doubtful whether they will be able to field a junior side next season.

The only other alternative is to commence the league much earlier than the last Saturday in April but here again there will be the trouble of starting before the football and cricket seasons close.

THE INTERPORTS

As will have already been seen, Shanghai have intimated that they will leave for Hongkong on October 2 for the Interport matches with the Colony. They are travelling by the Tatsuta Maru and will be returning on October 16. They will be in Hongkong for nearly two weeks and will meet all the leading bowls clubs, in addition to the various representative teams. There will be six official matches so that it is unlikely that the Northerners will be able to meet all the clubs. A programme will be drawn up next week sometime and communicated to Shanghai, although the Northerners have indicated their readiness to fall in with whatever arrangements are made for them by their hosts.

A meeting of the Council of the H.K. Rifle Association will be held in the Board Room of the South China Morning Post, Wyndham Street, at 5.30 p.m. on Friday, August 16.

by over 50 shots if either was to win the championship. Such a score was regarded as impossible, for as the afternoon game went on the keenness of the players kept large balances down. England were 9-0 at one end, and at five ends they led by 25-18. The Welsh rinks improved so much in the next five ends that Wales led by 59-43.

There was a curious succession of scores, three Welsh rink each making nine to their opponents twelve each, but Wales won by 119 to 99. H. O. Bristow was the only winning English skip, beating A. J. Stacey. Arthur Budd drew with W. J. Treen. The others lost.

The cup was presented to the Scottish team and thanks were given to the Victoria Club for the use of their green and premises. Results:

SCOTLAND v. IRELAND

A. J. Smith, J. Campbell, J. G. Dewar and R. Sprot (Scotland) beat J. McLelland, C. Clawson, W. R. Hewitt and W. Gardiner 22-10.

W. Campbell, D. Tait, N. Macpherson and A. Dunlop (Scotland) beat J. Cameron, W. A. Stewart, G. Watson and A. Brown 21-17.

W. Splitt, A. J. Patterson, G. Calderwood and J. P. Morrison (Scotland) lost to J. Fielding, C. Curran, J. A. Boyd and A. McAlpine 13-19.

Dr. H. Scott Dod, R. Fordyce, J. Rowatt and W. S. Lowe (Scotland) lost to J. Baker, S. Agnew, J. Thompson and J. McPartland 17-21.

WALES v. ENGLAND

D. Rees, S. Weaver, W. H. Mitchell and A. J. Stacey (Wales) lost to S. M. Purdon, E. P. Baker, E. W. Fortune and H. O. Bristow 18-25.

T. R. Davies, P. Holloway, S. Cecil and W. J. Treen (Wales) tied with F. G. Curtis, J. Wilson, R. Steel and A. H. Bull 19-19.

I. Evans, S. O. Davies, J. Dummer and J. F. O'Donnell (Wales) beat T. C. Hills, P. Guy, W. M. Grice and W. J. Jones 29-25.

J. A. Griffiths, T. Toms, R. H. Baker and J. F. Williams (Wales) beat C. J. Scott, F. N. Johnson, C. Walton, and P. D. Tomlinson 23-18.

H. M. Grizelle, W. J. Titley, C. E. Budd and A. J. Bibb (Wales) beat J. Owen, A. K. Cochrane, M. A. Ferris and G. W. A. Wright 30-12.

INDIANS BEAT KOWLOON

IN "A" DIVISION OF LEAGUE

TENNIS FIXTURE PLAYED OFF

The Indian Recreation Club scored their third successive victory in the "A" Division of the Lawn Tennis League since the Rumjahn cousins' partnership was dissolved, when they defeated the Kowloon Cricket Club by six sets to three on the Kowloon courts yesterday afternoon.

A. E. P. Guest and N. A. E. MacKay caused a surprise when they accounted for S. A. Rumjahn and S. A. Ismail in the first round, which Kowloon won two sets to one, but they were defeated in the last round by F. D. Pereira and M. O. Hoosen after a close struggle.

H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar were again the outstanding pair for the Indians, winning all three sets, but they were given a close match by the Fincher brothers in the first round, the set going to ten games before the Indian pair emerged victorious.

The scores were level at the end of the second round, and it was expected the Fincher brothers would defeat S. A. Rumjahn and S. A. Ismail in the last round. It was, therefore, left to Pereira and Hoosen to win their match if the Indians were to win the honours, but the Fincher brothers unexpectedly went under rather tamely in their set, and the Indians had won even before the other set was decided.

Each Kowloon pair won one set, while S. A. Rumjahn and S. A. Ismail won two sets, and Pereira and Hoosen one. Scores:

E. C. Fincher and E. F. Fincher (Kowloon C. C.) lost to S. A. Rumjahn and S. A. Ismail 1-6; lost to H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar 4-6; beat F. D. Pereira and M. O. Hoosen 6-1.

M. Pagh and F. Grose (Kowloon C. C.) lost to Rumjahn and Ismail 2-6; lost to Rumjahn and Madar 2-6; beat Pereira and Hoosen 6-3.

A. E. P. Guest and N. A. E. MacKay (Kowloon C. C.) beat Rumjahn and Ismail 6-3; lost to Rumjahn and Madar 2-6; lost to Pereira and Hoosen 5-7.

NANKING CABINET CHANGES

WANG CHING-WEI'S RESIGNATION

Nanking, August 9.

The Government has not yet made any decision as to whether it will accept or reject Mr. Wang Ching-wei's resignation.

The opinion is generally held that the Government leaders will urge Mr. Wang Ching-wei to withdraw his resignation.

The Generalissimo's re-action is anxiously awaited.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei's telegram was entirely unexpected, since Mr. Yeh Chu-tsang, Secretary General of the Central Executive of the Kuomintang, only left last night by train for Tsingtao to visit Mr. Wang Ching-wei and discuss political affairs.

It is expected that Mr. Yeh Chu-tsang, as soon as he arrives in Tsingtao, will urge Mr. Wang Ching-wei to withdraw his resignation.—Reuter.

Reshuffle Later

Nanking, August 9.

Although it is not impossible that the entire Government will follow Mr. Wang Ching-wei's example and resign, a Cabinet reshuffle is more likely to be deferred until September 20, when the Kuomintang National Congress meets at Nanking.

In the meantime, Dr. H. H. Kung, who will probably be appointed to succeed Mr. Wang Ching-wei will remain acting premier while vice-Minister Hsu Mo will continue as acting-Foreign Minister.—Reuter.

Dr. Kung Surprised

Shanghai, August 9.

Dr. H. H. Kung, the acting Chairman of the Executive Council, when interviewed here to-day, said that he was not aware of the resignation of Mr. Wang Ching-wei. He continued that before he left the capital he understood that Mr. Wang's health had improved and that he would probably return to the capital before the 20th. inst.

"If the report of his resignation is true," continued Dr. H. H. Kung, "it is very likely that the Central Government will urge him to remain in his office."

In answering to further questions Dr. H. H. Kung said that he may make a trip to Hankow to inspect the flood situation there. Dr. Kung emphatically denied the report that he is going to Kuling for a summer holiday.

In regard to the future monetary policy of the Central Government Dr. Kung said that the scheme for improving the monetary system in the country was still under consideration of the Central Government. It is very probably that the first step will be reminting of the copper coins and the introducing of 5 cent and ten-cent nickel pieces.

Dr. Kung finally stated that the report that the Central Government is going to adopt an inflationary policy is absolutely groundless.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

People Not Surprised

Shanghai, Aug. 9.

The local populace are not surprised when the report of Mr. Wang Ching-wei's resignation reached here from Nanking, as it had been freely reported that Mr. Wang might resign, before he left here for Tsingtao.

It is also undrstood that the Central Government Authority will urge Mr. Wang to remain at his posts.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Wang Chung-hui's Return

Shanghai, Aug. 9.

It is reliably reported here that Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Chinese Judge attached to the International Court at the Hague, is expected to return here at the end of next month.

It is feared that Dr. Wang will not be in time to attend the 6th. Plenary Session of the Kuomintang Congress.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

U. S. AIR CHIEF

RESIGNS FOLLOWING FATAL ACCIDENTS TO FLIERS

Washington, Aug. 9.

Major General Foulois, Chief of the Army Air Corps, has voluntarily resigned, thus ending a long controversy, which arose following a succession of fatal acidents to Air Force fliers, when Army planes temporarily conducted mail services.—Reuter.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

A two-letter word bristles in the life of Gilbert Roland. His life and career were modified by a series of if's. If his family had not fled Mexico during a revolution he now would be a retired bullfighter, for matadors past thirty are practically all retired. If he hadn't been a demon of determination he would not have battled the Hollywood extra line for four years. If he hadn't somewhat resembled Ramon Navarro he wouldn't have been taken to Annapolis to double for Navarro. If the producer, B. P. Schulberg, hadn't seen him in a cafe he wouldn't have offered him a screen test. If he had been able to raise an additional forty dollars he would have gone to Spain to try his luck in the bull rings. If he hadn't been able to speak Spanish perfectly he would not have been engaged by Fox Film for Spanish pictures. If he hadn't signed the contract, he would not have played the lead opposite Mona Barrie in "Mystery Woman", which turned out so well that he is again co-featured with her in "Ladies Love Danger", the murder-mystery-romance, coming to the King's Theatre on Wednesday, with a brilliant supporting cast. It is an Edward T. Lowe production directed by H. Bruce Humberstone.

"Living on Velvet"

"Living on Velvet," the First National production which is a smashing drama with an unique twist on the eternal love triangle, is now at the Alhambra. An unusual angle in the romance lies in the fact that two men, friends, each tries to give up the girl they both love, in order that the other may be happy with her. Kay Francis, in the stellar role, gives one of the finest characterisations of her career as the beautiful society girl torn between her affection for one man and her mad infatuation for the other. Miss Francis is always beautiful and stunning on the screen, but her part in this picture calls for exceptional talent in dramatic and emotional acting. She portrays her role with such intense feeling and sincerity that she won the complete sympathy of the audiences. The star has two leading men in the production, Warren William and George Brent, the former a veritable Gibraltar of stability, and the other a likable, though daredevil aviator who has lost all sense of proportions through a terrific airplane crash in which everyone is killed except himself. He tries in every way to throw his life away in the maddest escapades imaginable, but is saved from the consequences of his scrapes by his staunch friend. When he falls in love with the girl his friend loves, Miss Francis, he tries to flee from her, but she is as madly infatuated as he is, and sends his best friend to find him for her. Marrying him against the objection of the family, believing her love will bring him a saner outlook on life, she finds that he is so unfitted to domesticity that her life is completely miserable. Finally, after new and madder escapades, she gives him up, believing she has failed him, although still in love. After a thrilling situation in which the youth flies low over a suburban city, nearly killing several people, he is grounded. Follows a wild automobile ride which ends in a smashing climax, both literally and figuratively. Brent does an unusually fine piece of work as the reckless, daredevil pilot, who seems to think of no one but himself, and Warren William is excellent as the more stable lover. Helen Lowell and Henry O'Neill, both veterans of the stage, deserve special mention for their characterisations. Others in the cast who do fine work include Russell Hicks, Maude Turner Gordon, Samuel Hinds, Martha Merrill and Edgar Kennedy.

"Wednesday's Child"

John Robertson, eminently successful film director, voices his belief that the public will always welcome pictures that have themes based on the vital social questions of the day, provided that they are presented without attempt at moral preachment. "Wednesday's Child" which he recently directed for RKO-Radio, has such a theme, dealing, as it does, with the effects of marital difficulties upon the children involved. It depicts the plight of these children when deprived of home and parental love and care.

SERIAL STORY—

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER XLIV

Zoe said, "My dear, I'm terribly sorry. I knew you'd have to know sooner or later, but I hoped it would be some other way—"

The marriage certificate of Michael Heatheroe and Katharine Strykhurst lay on the table between her and Dr. Kaye. He glanced at it, glanced away.

"But I had thought," he said in a puzzled tone, "when she left I certainly thought—"

Zoe patted his hand. "I don't know what this is all about," she said. "But I'm certain Katharine never meant to hurt anyone. She must have had a very good reason for not telling us."

The lean, ascetic young doctor flushed under his recent tan.

"I don't doubt it."

"You—you were crazy about her, weren't you?" Zoe asked simply. He nodded.

"I've been there, myself," she added after a moment. "I guess you know about that. Loving anyone and finding out you don't count, and feeling nothing's worth while . . . but you know all about that. You saved me from something terrible. I'll never forget it. That's why I wish I could help now."

"It's all right," Dr. Kaye muttered. "It's my own fault. I was just a fool, I guess."

Much, much later, after he had gone, Zoe reviewed the scene, remembering the way he had looked—the hurt in his eyes. She had tucked the tell-tale document away in an envelope and had mailed it to Katharine at Silencia, Roanne, New Mexico. With that out of her hands, she felt definitely safer.

It was a pity Dr. Kaye had had to learn the news thus. If it had not been for Gracia and her hateful shepherd dog it never would have happened. Gracia was definitely a trouble maker, but this time she had been an unwitting one.

Zoe went through the morning room. Gerda was picking up fallen flower petals; there were late chrysanthemums in all the vases. Gerda turned, holding something out to Zoe. "I guess the doctor dropped this."

Zoe took it. John Kaye's pig-skin glove. It was a special golfing glove, one of an old and beloved pair. She recognised it.

"Thanks, Gerda. I'll see he gets it."

She went upstairs. Her own beautiful room was in perfect order. Her dinner dress, an affair of delicate blue lace, was laid out on the bed. Her little buckled slippers and transparent stockings were there, too. Gerda flung herself down on the taffeta-covered chaise longue and closed her eyes. She had John Kaye's glove in her hand. How he must have loved Kay, to look so troubled when he learned of her deception!

Zoe shivered a little; there was a man any girl might love with an aching tenderness. She had always noticed him, growing up. But he had been Katharine's special friend. Then the night he had worked over Zoe, after her mad attempt to kill herself, she had begun to think of him again. She had refused to admit it, hating to mark herself as light and fickle, but actually before she had reached Colorado on her trip in search of health she had admitted Dr. Kaye to the secret places of her heart. Gibbs had thus been easily blotted out. She could look back at Gibbs now as at a far-off figure in another existence. She had grown up since that night.

She wouldn't be foolish about this. She'd keep out of John Kaye's way. She respected him, honoured him. If the sound of his quiet, authoritative voice stirred her more than a little, she would let her feeling go no further than that . . . but, oh, what a lucky girl she would be who was singled out by this serious, gentle, hard-working young man!

"Not for me," said Zoe, springing to her feet and dashing into the bathroom to run a luxuricus tub.

"Talking to yourself, darling?" Mrs. Parker wandered in, wrapped in a negligee of dull rose, her pretty hair set in scalloped and delicately pinned waves.

"I was just muttering away," Zoe said gaily.

Zoe's mother established herself on the chaise.

"I was just talking to Daddy about the move into town, and he's for it," she said animatedly. "He found a penthouse in a building over east—57th street, I think he said. Anyhow, the oddest thing—Dr. Kaye lives in the building."

Zoe, bending over a half-opened drawer of gossamer underthings, felt a rosy tide of colour flooding her cheeks. She gave herself a steadying moment before she answered.

"That comes under the head of co-incidences, doesn't it?"

Her tone was so dry that Mrs. Parker said, rather anxiously, "You don't like him, darling? Is that it?"

Zoe hastened to deny this. "Oh, I think he's an admirable person—but hardly in my age and weight class, do you think?"

"Darling, don't be flippant! And do promise to be courteous to him when we meet."

"I can promise that, well enough," Zoe said. "Dearest Mums, don't worry, I'll be lovely to him. Although I don't suppose we'll see him much. That's the way apartment house life is; you never see your next-door neighbour."

But in her heart she was hoping she was wrong.

John Kaye went back to the Strykhurst house with a heavy heart. That Katharine should be actually married to another man was a stunning blow. But that she hadn't confided the news to him was more crushing still.

Poor child—she had few people to confide in, the young physician mused, watching Bertine preside at her dinner table later. Bertine, massaged, corseted, groomed to the last inch of her healthy, middle-aged body, beamed at him, little suspecting the thoughts her young kinsman was directing at her.

"Gracia is coming over for bridge later, John. Can we count on your support?"

He answered as graciously as he could. His thoughts were far-away.

"I'll be glad to, although I may have a call from town. Miss Mearsham telephoned me just before dinner. She's to call later. Something about a consultation at the Medical Centre—"

Bertine pouted. "Oh, you doctors! Always on the wing. I hope it doesn't go through. Gracia will be so disappointed. You knew her engagement to Captain Byrne was off, didn't you? Gracia decided they just weren't meant for each other."

John Kaye scarcely knew what he ate. The souffle on his plate was delicious. He scarcely touched it. His office nurse telephoned just as coffee was being served in the drawing room, and as Gracia McIlvaine bustled in.

"Why, Dr. John, we meet again! Wasn't that dog fight too awful?"

Drat the woman, thought the man resentfully, making his excuses and plunging out to the telephone.

Miss Mearsham was properly apologetic. The doctor needn't come in to-night, after all. Dr. Abbott said to-morrow morning would do just as well.

John Kaye came back to the drawing room and lied manfully. He had to rush, he said. He would be back as quickly as he could. Perhaps they would not have finished the rubber . . .

Regretfully Gracia watched him go. John could hear Victor Strykhurst telephoning Mrs. Willetts, asking if Lucy wanted to make a fourth. He felt guilty, but escape was too tempting.

Driving past the Parker's gateway, he felt an unaccountable impulse to see Zoe again. Her warm and impulsive sympathy had been very sweet that afternoon. Perhaps he could talk to her about Katharine.

The girl who came toward him was fragrant in delicate blue lace. Her brown curls rioted about her small head. Her eyes were fringed with dark lashes.

"Why, Zoe's a beauty," thought John Kaye, surprised that he had not noticed it before. He had always counted her a mere child, frivolous and amusing. To-day she had shown a sweeter, deeper, more womanly side? Some ancient scales seemed to have fallen his eyes . . .

For a moment they stood, regarding each other. Then the man said, haltingly, "I thought I dropped a glove here to-day . . ."

Zoe shook her head. "Don't believe so. Gerda would have given it to me, if you had."

That glove was in her childish treasure box, along with other hoarded mementoes.

"Some day, perhaps," thought the girl with sudden prescience, "I shall tell him about it."

"May I stay long enough to smoke a cigarette?" the man asked, glancing from the book she held to the glowing grate fire.

Zoe's heart cried, "Stay a long time, my darling."

But she was all demureness as she answered him.

CINEMA NEWS

The picture has its initial showings to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. "So far as I can see, the only difference between this thoughtful sort of drama and the conventional domestic triangle production, is one of quality. "Wednesday's Child" is intimate, intriguing, often dramatic, thrilling and at all times alive with deep human interest. This sort of play is constructive, as well as entertaining. "What with action, suspense and plot, such dramas hold the interest of auditors some of whom are thrilled at what they believe to be an expose of their neighbours. Others see themselves in the characters protrayed and are benefitted as well as diverted." When produced as a play in New York this picture had a long and successful engagement and was the runner-up for the Pulitzer Prize. Frankie Thomas in the title role is featured with Edward Arnold and Karen Morley.

"Lottery Lover"

One of the most delicious screen comedies of the decade, "Lottery Lover," began a two-day engagement yesterday at the Star Theatre and was hilariously endorsed by a delighted audience. This Fox Film comedy-romance is the story of a gallant crew of young cadets, enjoying their first leave in Paris. One of their number, the only girl-shy fellow in the lot, wins the lottery which they have organised. With it he wins their pooled resources, the right to woo the glamorous darling of the "Folies Bergere"—and the lady's garter as his calling card. Meanwhile, the girl-shy lad had found the one girl of his heart—a fact which complicates his situation. The development of this ingenious story affords screen entertainment of a high order, and a production that sparkles with the zest and gaiety of the Parisian boulevards. Lew Ayres turns in a grand performance as the winner of the love lottery; "Pat" Patterson, charming English beauty, is the girl he really loves; and Peggy Fears, often described as "the best-dressed woman on Broadway," is the fascinating actress. In this, her screen debut, Miss Fears discloses that she is a film personality of the first rank—smart, talented, beautiful and magnetic. Not the least of the picture's high points is her singing of two enchanting numbers by Jay Gorney and Don Hartman, "Ting-A-Ling-A-Ling" and "There's a Bit of Paree in You."

"Folies Bergere"

Because of the spectacular reputation of the original "Folies Bergere", the film version of which is now at the King's Theatre, the chorus numbers call for greater courage on the part of the girls than the customary screen musical. Mere rhythmic dance routines are subordinated to sensational effects. The girls were, therefore, given a long siege of physical training in addition to the rehearsals in dance formation. Each day's toil was preceded by exercises to strech their muscles, for one scene required them to lean forward at an angle of forty-five degrees from a spining merry-go-round, rotating at high speed. Dancing high in the air on a thin electrical streak of lightning was another feat which required gymnastic as well as terpsichorean skill. Because of the risks involved, a doctor and two nurses were on hand during the rehearsals and actual shooting of these particular numbers. Fortunately, however, a few scratches were the most serious casualties sustained. Dave Gould, who staged the dances in this Joseph M. Schenck presentation, released through United Artists, will be remembered for the breath-taking effects he achieved in the Carioca number created for "Flying Down to Rio" and his mammoth flying adagios for the memorable Continental number in "The Gay Divorcee".

"The Best Man Wins"

"The Best Man Wins" having its final showings to-day at the Queen's Theatre is genuinely thrilling . . stirring . . breath-taking entertainment, unfolding the most sensational underwater photography ever recorded. It is the screen thrill of the year and its casts includes Jack Holt and Edmund Lowe in the leading roles with Florence Rice, Bela Lugosi, Bradley Page and Frank Sherdian in support. The story concerns Nick and Toby who are deep-sea divers as well as rivals for the hand of lovely Ann Allen. Toby loses an arm as a result of an accident and is forced to quit. Nick leaves too, joining the harbour police. One day Nick finds Toby working for Dr. Boehm who is using his yacht to recover smuggled gems dropped to the sea floor from incoming steamers. Nick suspects the Doctor and raids the boat, but the gems have been concealed. Toby has a change of heart and decides to quit and marry Ann. On his last job however the smuggler deserts Toby on the sea floor, leaving him to die to prevent him from talking. Nick, watching from a distance in a police boat, raids the smuggler's yacht, finds the gems and discovers Toby is gone. Without waiting to don his suit, he decends on the boat's anchor to rescue his friend. His lines are snarled and he is in danger of drowning, but Toby in a last desperate effort, manages to free him and send him up to safty, then collapses. Nick and Ann decide to go on together.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

WHEN your opponents are playing a suit declaration and your partner, before the contracting was closed, had bid a suit, the most common opening is the top of your partner's suit.

By opening the top of your partner's suit it lets your partner know what missing high cards to place in the declarer's hand. If you have supported your partner's bid and hold four of his suit to the ace, king or queen it may be opened fourth best, but under no circumstances should you open low of your parner's suit when holding less than four.

When holding certain combinations of cards, partner's suit should not be opened, and they are listed below:

1. If you hold a singleton of another suit and hold the ace x x, king x x of trump, the singleton should be opened first—then when trump are led, you can get in on the first or second round and lead your partner's suit. He can then return the suit that you opened which you can ruff and if you are fortunate enough to have another trump, you have the possibility of again getting your partner in to give you a second ruff.

2. Holding the ace, king, jack or ace, king x x of another suit, the king of that suit should be opened and if partner does not give an encouraging card, partner's suit should then be led.

3. Holding a suit headed by ace, king, queen or king, queen, jack, the king should be opened rather than partner's suit, and followed with the queen.

4. Great care should be exercised in the opening of singletons in preference to partner's suit, and they are considered poor leads unless the leader holds at least the jack x x x of trump. With less than this holding, the singleton lead may establish a long suit for the declarer. He will then pick up your trump and get valuable discards on the suit you assisted him in setting up.

5. If you hold four or more of partner's suit and the bidding almost definitely establishes the fact that either one of the opponents may be void of that suit, and you hold another four card suit headed with an ace or king, queen, it generally pays to open this other suit to get a look at the dummy. It may be your partner's side strength.

With the exception of the above described holdings, partner's suit should be opened.

Other problems which arise in leading, under various conditions, will be discussed in later articles.

OVERCROWDING DEFINED

BRITISH HOUSING LEGISLATION

London, Aug. 9.

One of the most important among Bills which became law at the end of last week, before Parliament adjourned, was the Housing Act, which completed the legislative framework of the Government's plans for dealing with the housing problem, and which, for the first time, lays down a statutory definition of overcrowding.

The Ministry of Health has lost no time in circularing local authorities assuring them of the readiness of the Manister to give any assistance in his power to those able to take immediate action to abate overcrowding.

A circular just issued draws attention to the changes which the Act makes in slum clearance and other housing laws and to the manner in which it "provides weapons for the elimination of overcrowding". The first stage is a survey in each locality to determine where overcrowding exists. A subsidy will be available for the provision of necessary additional accommodation where the cost is likely to be such that rents would otherwise be too high for the class of tenants affected.—British Wireless.

HARBOUR TRAGEDY

JAPANESE SEAMAN LOST OFF WANCHAI

A distressing tragedy occurred in the harbour yesterday morning, when a Japanese seaman of a fishing trawler, the Minoto Maru, anchored off Wanchai, lost his life by drowning.

The deceased, Shosoburu Matsuozaki, aged 21, with a companion, was apparently trying to attract the attention of some friends on another trawler lying close by, and not succeeding, they decided to swim to the other vessel.

Both being fairly good swimmers, they set out to cover the distance of about fifty yards which separated the trawlers, but midway Shosoburu got into difficulties owing to the strong current which was running. His friend made desperate efforts to draw the attention of those on board the trawlers to the man's plight, but all his attempts failed, and Matsuozaki was drowned.

The strong current prevented the other man from going to the assistance of Matsuozaki, so he swam back to his ship with news of the tragedy.

About 1 p.m. the body of the unfortunate seaman was recovered near the Electric Company's works at North Point.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at Happy Valley.

"THE TWELFTH"

HEAVY TRAFFIC TO SCOTLAND

London, Aug. 9.

A feature this year of the usual heavy passenger traffic to Scotland for 'The Twelfth"—the opening of the grouse season—is the increase in the numbers travelling by night.

One train leaving London tonight will run in six parts and carry four hundred passengers in first-class and seven hundred in the third-class sleeping berths, while another train will leave in three parts to accommodate the extra traffic.

Large numbers of travellers are taking their motor cars with them in vans coupled to the coaches.—British Wireless.

P.I. COMMONWEALTH

INAUGURATION FIXED FOR NOVEMBER 15

Manila, Aug. 9.

The date for the inauguration of the Philippine Commonwealth was set definitely for November 15, after officials in Washington indicated that it was the most satisfactory time for visitors from the United States.

Previously tentative plans were made to hold it on November 25, owing to boat schedules which would permit a quick return.

However, it was learned that many officials would want to remain a fortnight or more, hence the date was changed again to November 15.—United Press.

One case of Typhoid was reported to the local Health authorities on Thursday.

The names of On Wo Estates, Ltd., and of Radio Services, Ltd., have been struck off the Register.

Black Ends Flight

FORCED TO RETURN TO ENGLAND

NEW AIRWAY DEVELOPMENT

London, Aug. 9.

T. Campbell Black is expected to take off from Cairo this evening for England after having had to abandon his attempted record-breaking flight to South Africa on account of engine trouble which developed on the first stage of his journey.—British Wireless.

EXTENDED SERVICE

London, Aug. 9.

Imperial Airways has decided to duplicate, after September 24, the air mail service between Calcutta and Singapore, following the duplication last January of the service between London and Calcutta, in response to the increase of traffic. After that date both services which leave England each week on Tuesdays and Saturdays will continue through to Singapore.—British Wireless.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES

London, Aug. 9.

The National Physical Laboratory, at the request of the Civil Aviation Department of the Air Ministry, has undertaken an investigation of several problems connected with visibility and the safety of aircraft.

An attempt is being made to discover means of aiding the landing of aircraft when an aerodrome is obscured by fog and of warning aircraft in the neighbourhood of high obstructions under poor visibility conditions. Experiments will be made at a selected aerodrome. A monoplane has been specially equipped for the purpose and ground installation will include radio beacons.—British Wireless.

VON CRAMM THE BEST PLAYER

AMERICAN TENNIS TEAM RETURNS

DAVIS CUP TEAM HOME AGAIN

New York, Aug. 9.

The American Davis Cup players arrived here to-day.

Wilmer Allison, the playing captain, said that "England will retain the Davis Cup as long as Fred Perry and Bunny Austin are in form."

He also said that Perry will not turn professional.

Donald Budge, who reached the semi-final in the Wimbledon Championship, said that "Von Cramm is the best tennis player in the world despite Perry's greater confidence and speed."—United Press.

N.Y. STOCKS ACTIVE

TURN-OVER REACHES 2,000,000 SHARES

New York, Aug. 9.

The Wall Street Journal, reporting on to-day's market conditions, states:

Stocks to-day were again upward, led by automobile issues. For the first time since May, 1928 the turnover on the Stock Exchange reached 2,000,000 shares. Dow-Jones' Industrial average touched the highest level since 1931.

"Blue chips" reached the highest mark for a year or longer, which was attributed to the recent dividends future outlook.

Most of to-day's trading consisted of cash transactions for the dividends future outlook.

Stocks on the Curb Exchange were active and higher. Bonds were irregular, with railroad and utility issues upward.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

POLICE AQUATICS

Interesting Programme Of Events

The 14th. annual aquatic sports meeting of the Police and Prisons Department will be held on Saturday, September 14, at the Victoria Recreation Club bath at 3 p.m.

The committee responsible for the arrangements have drawn up an elaborate programme of events open to European, Chinese and Indian members of the Force and Prisons Department.

Altogether twenty events have been arranged, and heats will be held on earlier days which have not been announced. Novelty items will be the Uniform Race for the Asiatic Land Police; the life-belt race open to Chinese members of the Water Police (deck and engine room staffs); obstacle race for Europeans; life-saving, greasy-pole, and sampan events.
